Increased partnerships with fellow organizations through the Oswego County Trauma Informed Collaborative and through creating and organizing events for National Public Health Week (NPHW). NPHW events increased public engagement and awareness of health department programs and services while providing opportunities to further educate the public on public health topics. Also created an ongoing online portal for community feedback and assisted with the Community Health Assessment Survey.

Would you recommend the NYSPHC Fellowship Program to others?

Yes, a great beginner program that allows those just starting in the public health space to connect with potential mentors and fellow public health workers.

One of the biggest highlights from my Fellowship experience was being able to author a government report on Winter Preparedness in Erie County. I was fully responsible for analyzing, writing, and reporting the data using tools, such as Stata, Canva, and Excel.

Would you recommend the NYSPHC Fellowship Program to others?

Yes, I would strongly recommend the NYSPHC Fellowship Program to others even though my tenure ended earlier than expected. The NYSPHC Fellowship is a great opportunity to learn while being paid a decent wage. It is one of the best professional development programs that I've participated in since I had so many rich experiences, such as attending conferences, networking, and working in a government office as an epidemiologist.

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

The NYSPHC Fellowship Program was an amazing experience. I worked in foster care and reproductive healthcare previously. The Fellowship illustrated how my work in those fields merged perfectly with my work in public health. It enhanced my community engagement experience. It awakened my passion for improved maternal health outcomes for the women in our state with the highest risk.

Please share any highlights or success stories from your Fellowship experience.

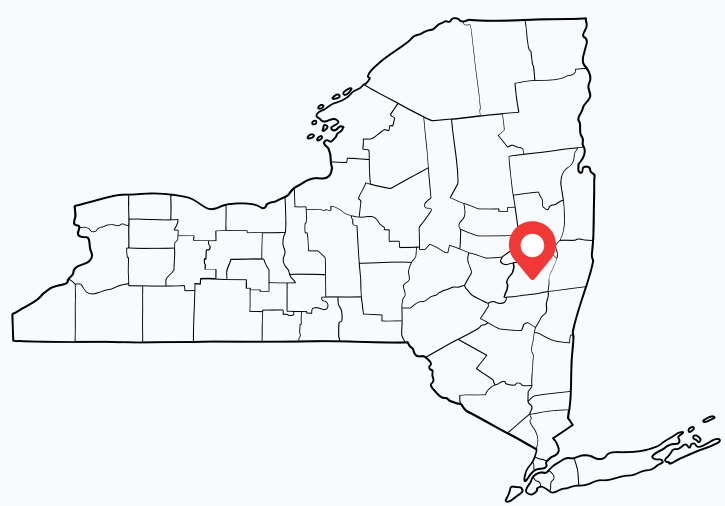

The highlight of my experience was meeting and engaging with so many people from various backgrounds, coming together with a goal of providing the highest quality healthcare for all people.

CURRENT ROLE

Job Title: Program Manager

Organization: Northwell

Organization Type: Healthcare

PRIMARY FOCUS AREA

Program and Organizational Management

AREAS OF KNOWLEDGE/EXPERTISE

- Health equity

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

My fellowship included the certificate program with Cornell University's Public Health Essentials (PHE) which reinforced the core concepts in project planning, evaluation, and program implementation, all of which are essential for my job as a Northwell program manager.

Through my project with the Suffolk County STI unit and working closely with their director, Mary Pat Boyle, I gained practical experience in addressing a public health priority (raising awareness about CS). This is highly relevant my programs at Northwell. I'm deeply involved in community health initiatives to reduce overdoses, increase supports for substance users and their families. I found that as a program manager with a public health background I can better understand and contribute to efforts focused on patient outcomes, prevention, and community outreach.

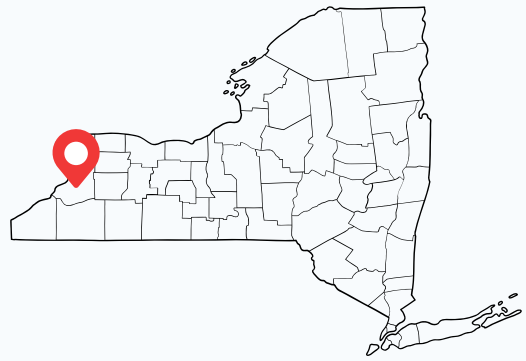

Please share any highlights or success stories from your Fellowship experience.

A highlight from my fellowship was participating in the statewide Congenital Syphilis Elimination Strategic Planning Group.

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

It directly influenced my choice to pursue an MPH and shaped my current work as a medical student and researcher — from launching mentorship and community programs to designing protocols for proteomics research on reproductive health. The fellowship also expanded my professional network and taught me how to turn public-health evidence into actionable clinical and community interventions.

Please share any highlights or success stories from your Fellowship experience.

Since participating as a NYSPHC Fellow at the New York State Department of Health, I have been accepted into medical school and am now nearing the completion of my first year. This program equipped me with valuable skills and experiences that strengthened my medical school application and prepared me for the rigors of medical training. My time at the Department of Health significantly enhanced my efficiency, time management, and professionalism—skills that continue to benefit me in my medical career. I am deeply grateful for the opportunity and its lasting impact on my journey.

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

The NYSPHC Fellowship Program was my first position after completing my Master of Public Health degree in Epidemiology and Disaster Science, Policy, and Practice. I worked with the New York State Department of Health in the Bureau of Community Environment Health and Food Protection. During this position, I had the opportunity to assist local health departments in food-borne, and occasionally waterborne, outbreak investigations and was responsible for reporting the details of such outbreaks to the CDC. I also worked closely with officials from the FDA, USDA, and the NYS Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC). Such opportunities provided a lot of insight into how public health works at the federal and state governmental levels. This experience led to my desire for curating further research skills across a broad range of topics, leading to my current position as a PhD student in Population Health where I also work as a teaching assistant and research assistant.

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

My time with the NYSPHC program was my first professional experience after finishing undergrad. It helped me gain a lot of professional skills and get real world experience on the things I learned in school. I realized that I wanted to be able to also help people hands-on at an individual level and decided to go to nursing school. I plan on becoming a public health nurse one day.

Would you recommend the NYSPHC Fellowship Program to others?

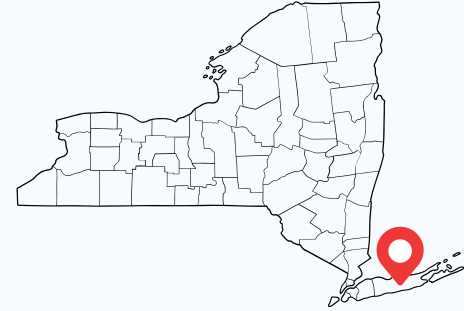

Yes I would because it was great entry-level experience and allowed for numerous networking opportunities. I gained skills through the work itself as well as the trainings and certifications we completed that I otherwise would not have had the opportunity to complete.

- Environmental health
- Food safety, Food Borne Illness

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

My experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program provided valuable exposure to communicable disease investigations and data collection. I developed skills in surveillance, reporting, and applying public health protocols, which gave me a strong foundation in protecting community health. These experiences directly support my current role as a Food Inspector, where I apply the same principles of prevention, attention to detail, and regulatory compliance to ensure food safety.

Please share any highlights or success stories from your Fellowship experience.

During my fellowship, I assisted the communicable disease unit with case investigations and provided education and counseling on risk factors associated with pathogens such as Salmonella, Shigella, and Giardia. I also supported the department's COVID-19 response through vaccine promotion, managed 311 public inquiries to address community health concerns, and assisted with Hepatitis B case management programs. These experiences allowed me to contribute directly to protecting community health while developing strong skills in disease investigation, public communication, and case management.

One of the biggest highlights from my time in the fellowship was co-founding Capital Region Menstrual Health (CRMH), an initiative created to address period poverty, or the inability to afford menstrual products. Through a combination of product distribution and community education, we provided over 200,000 menstrual products to individuals in need and raised awareness about the importance of menstrual health and equity. We launched over nine Free Period Pantries across Albany, Schenectady, and Troy. These 24/7 outdoor pantries were stocked with a variety of menstrual hygiene products and placed in high-need areas to ensure that products were available to those who needed them most.

I am happy to say that these period pantries are still in operation, even though our fellowship term has come to an end. A wonderful organization called the MoonCatcher project graciously offered to take over the project, and they are still going strong. Check out their work here: <https://www.mooncatcher.org/>

How did your experience with the NYSPHC Fellowship Program shape your current job or education status?

During the NYSPHC Fellowship I had hands-on experience designing and implementing community health interventions, which taught me how to translate public-health data into practical program decisions. I built skills in stakeholder engagement, grant/contract oversight, and performance measurement — for example, I led cross-agency meetings, prepared program deliverables, and used evaluation data to refine workflows. That experience was directly transferable to my current work in public-health administration: I now manage contracts, coordinate multi-partner initiatives, and apply evidence-based strategies to improve program outcomes. The fellowship also connected me with mentors and peers whose guidance helped me choose graduate coursework that deepened my policy and management expertise.

I learned a lot about local government and how to deal with people who may set you back. I went to many conferences and continued my education in many sectors of public health, not just what I learned in and focused on in graduate school. I gained communication and planning skills and completed a research abstract for the first time.

Would you recommend the NYSPHC Fellowship Program to others?

Yes, it was a great way to get my foot in the door and begin my public health career right out of graduate school.
